Write about a time when you didn't take action but wish you had. What would you do differently?

Whenever the situation takes me the around people with convo of spiritual life, relationships and the society issues like rape cases, LGBTQ and so on...

I couldn't make or loud my voice of opinion because the surrounded people would think me different or bad...so i keep on mute myself...but those thoughts and my loud voice speaks and wants to express me always...

Only when it comes to caste i could speak something little with my surrounding people except that i couldn't on anything...

This made me to write Blog to express me which i can't with my people... ☺
